

The Rewards Calculator

How does it work?

How do you ensure that you attract the candidates you want? For a start make sure that you are communicating all the benefits of why a candidate should be working for your business, and not your competitors.

The Rewards Calculator module allows candidates to understand the true value of the rewards package that might be available to them. Candidates can search for a suitable position on your company's careers website (provided as part of a TalentTracker® solution) and then find out exactly what's on offer.

Candidates can quickly calculate an indicative package based on key factors which determine the overall value i.e. location, position and contracted hours.

This module ensures all candidates are treated equally and fairly, whilst ensuring reward schemes are totally transparent. Candidates can work out their individual indicative package before applying for the role.

This feature is already used by leading UK blue chip businesses to attract candidates through clear communication of salary, rewards and benefits that add significantly to the overall package.

We can also provide this module to be used for internal recruitment which ensures that all employees are rewarded equally and fairly.

The rewards calculator can be used across all vacancies or selected vacancies that are appropriate for a rewards package.

We will design the calculator with your company's corporate logo and colour scheme and integrate it seamlessly with the careers site, ensuring your business maintains consistent branding.

Tell your potential candidates why they should work for you!
